

Laurie Mazurik, MD, FRCPC

Dr. Laurie Mazurik brings with her a wealth of experience, and commitment to see Canada and the world better prepared to prevent and manage public health emergencies.

The first exercise she conducted was in 2003 with a team that recreated the Columbine School Shootings. It brought together EMS, Police, Fire, multiple hospitals residents, nurses, and students – over 200 participants. Over the last 10 years, Dr. Mazurik has been the project lead on over 30 exercises with her team.

Dr. Mazurik is an emergency medicine physician at Sunnybrook Health Science Centre in Toronto. She is also a Transport Medicine Physician for Land (Sunnybrook Centre for Pre-hospital Care), and Air EMS (Ornge). She recently completed her Master's in Business Administration at Rotman School of Business, University of Toronto and is working towards completing a European Master's in Disaster Medicine (University of Piedmont, Italy).
